INTRODUCTION

This annotated bibliography is primarily for teachers and educators on the secondary level, and above, who are concerned about securing materials relating to the North American Indian.

Acknowledgement is given to the Arizona State University 1972 fall students in IE 411 (Indian Education, IE 424 (Curriculum and Practices for Indian Education) and IE 544 (Community Development in Indian Education) for their classroom contributions.

Special thanks is also extended to the Center's graduate assistants Deborah Golub, Lana Shaughnessy and Sheila McKenzie for their extensive work and dedication in the preparation of this bibliography.

Literature on the American Indian is continually growing thus the present bibliography will have to be up-dated from time to time. This we hope to do in the future. Our hope is that this bibliography may be of immediate assistance to all concerned with the life-style, culture, and contributions of the American Indian.
